"I can show even the non-artist the steps necessary to render extraordinary examples of trompe l'oeil art. The participants who successfully follow these simple steps and formulas will be in awe of their new-found abilities..."

These are the comforting words of Garth Benton, master of "trickery" in painting, and The Faux Academy is pleased to announce that we will be offering a course taught by this world renowned Trompe l'oeil artist. He will be at The Faux Academy to teach a class limited to 15 students a course of life-changing proportions, bringing great opportunities diversifying your portfolio and bringing to the next level of the decorative and faux finish arts.

You will find more information about this extraordinary Master of Trompe l'oeil on his website, <http://www.garthbenton.com>. The website and associated blog for The Faux Academy is located here www.fauxacademy.com and www.simplyfauxpainting.com.

The Faux Academy has been a mecca, a love and a haven of the arts for over 25 years. It has also the inspiration of many great faux artists. It is my pleasure to bring such a celebrity and master in the art world to all decorative artists. You need this course to take your portfolio to the next level. Usually I accommodate five students per course in my home studio. With an instructor of his magnitude offering a course through the Faux Academy, we are requiring 15 students to cover the costs for such an undertaking. Please pass this announcement along to your friends!

Due to unforeseen circumstance we unfortunately have to re-schedule the March class for April 19, 2010. As a band-aid and recession buster you will get a huge discount and a FREE FAUX FINISH CLASS. See next pages for details. Also, for these economically "trying times" I have initiated a new concept. You may pick and choose which class you are going to participate in depending on the designs you like to learn. Signing up now will give students the following recession incentives...
